

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at your drugist or general store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.—Adv.

Saturn Changing Color.
Recent observations of Saturn at the Lowell observatory show a remarkable change in the color and brightness of the planet itself, which is now of a pinkish brown tint and strikingly darker than its rings. Comparisons of the stellar magnitude of the planet with Capella, Procyon and Mars, also show that its brightness is less than had been predicted.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

"What? You refuse to lend me a measly ten-spot? Many's the time I've tided you over when you were short."
"Well, if you hadn't been so darned reckless with your money you wouldn't be broke now."

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS WHEN BLADDER BOTHERS

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids—Splendid for the System.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

Food Minimum.
The irreducible minimum for living expenses seems to have been attained by Roger Crab, the hermit, who lived at Ickenham, near Uxbridge. About 1841 he began to restrict himself to a vegetarian diet, avoiding even butter and cheese. From roots he got a diet consisting chiefly of broth made from turnip leaves and thickened with bran, and he finally resorted to dock leaves and grass, with a bran pudding as an occasional delicacy. He drank nothing but water and lived on three farthings a week until he died in 1880, at the age of sixty.—London Chronicle.

Coquettish Modes Reappearing

The pannier drapery and the pointed bodice, from the coquettish modes of long ago, are plainly embodied in the fascinating frock shown here. But it follows its pretty and frivolous forerunner at a considerable and safe distance and has adapted instead of adopting the original that it compliments so adroitly. The twentieth century maid consents to the frivolity of the seventeenth century gown but stops at its foolishness. She has folies of her own to deal with.

The gown pictured has a full underskirt of georgette crepe on which a little outline embroidery in gold appears at the front, and an underbodice and three-quarter length sleeves of the crepe. The overskirt, of flowered taffeta, is cut longer than the underskirt and caught up at two places at each side. Wherever required it is tucked to the underskirt and it hangs straight and full at the back, covering the crepe skirt completely.

The crepe underbodice is almost square at the neck and finished with a narrow silk lace with gold threads outlining the flower pattern. The silk bodice, instead of being stiffly boned and smooth, is softly draped about the figure, thus departing from the ways of its prototype. Instead of a long, rigid point at the front it has a short point and easy adjustment to the figure. It is gathered over a cord at the top and narrows to bands over the shoulders. It is graceful and comfortable looking which proves that we have learned something in the lapse of over two hundred years—perhaps.

Worth and Pretet and other great names in the world of fashion, sanction the revival of the pannier and the pointed bodice. Each adapts the mode to his own ideas. It is safe to predict that they will accomplish nothing prettier than the model shown here, which may be made up in any of the season's good colors.

Seaweed is made into a composition to take the place of bone for handles of cutlery.

Made of Familiar Materials

The art of the milliner means more than the material she works with, or quite as much, anyway, in producing hats in which style is the strongest element. Here are two attractive and inexpensive hats, made of familiar materials, that demonstrate how cleverly ideas that may be interpreted in materials that every milliner has at hand. These hats are suited to any season, too, which is a great factor in their favor.

The pretty model, with spangled crown and brim of ruffled malines may be made in black or in any of the colors in which spangled bands are to be found, with malines to match. A crown of nacre or opalescent malines would make a beautiful and very dressy hat. The ruffle of malines is made of four thicknesses, wired for support and put on in box plaits. A half wreath of foliage and hat silk roses is applied at the right side and back, over the malines. This is one of those hats that are simple enough in construction to be made by the home milliner. She will succeed by making a faithful copy of it.

The turban of satin presents also no great difficulties to the ambitious needlewoman. The frame is in two pieces, which are covered separately. The covering of the crown is plain, except for a fold in the satin which extends diagonally across the top. The side crown is covered with a bias strip stretched smoothly about it. The lower part of the coronet is also covered with a plain bias strip of satin. At the top a puff of satin, or of faille or moire ribbon, gives the required variety and finish. A fine wire is inserted in the lower edge of the puff where it joins the satin. This is to be neglected if the hat is copied; it is the touch that betrays the work of the professional.

A narrow novelty band and flat cachoon of beads, in the same color as the hat, give it a dash of brilliance and color contrast is managed by application of sprays of silk foliage and a rose at each side. These sprays are bought readymade.

About the most difficult part of the work, for the amateur, confronts her after the hat is made and trimmed. It remains to be lined. Chiffon, taffeta, or other light-weight silk, is to be used for this purpose, and the work may be simplified by pasting in the lining with millinery glue. If it is sewed in, silk thread matching the hat in color, and a fine needle, make the task of concealing stitches less tedious.

The Norfolk Coat.
The Norfolk coat is always a satisfactory one. A new model shows military pockets that are new and distinctive. It is admirable for all seasons and for a variety of different materials. Blue gabardine, white gabardine and white serge are especially smart made up into Norfolk coats.

Satin Tailored Suits.
In the tailcoats of the smart city hotels tailored suits of a heavy weight of satin are frequently seen. The

BABY HANDS STAY ARM OF THE LAW

Father Is Saved From Prison Term by Prattle of Child.

CROWD WINS PAROLE

Intercedes With Judge in Behalf of Prisoner—Somebody Passes the Hat and His Honor Scowls and Then Contributes.

Kansas City, Mo.—A pair of baby hands reached out and stayed the arm of the law just before it thrust Arthur Beeson into the penitentiary for three years. The hands belonged to Baby Beeson, aged eighteen months, who sat upon his mother's lap during the trial of his father.

Beeson, who is an expert handler of horses, took a horse from the pasture of Herman Vogel, near Independence. He sold the animal and went to Des Moines, where he worked steadily until his arrest. Beeson attracted little attention in the courtroom. But every one not otherwise engaged was looking at or playing with Baby Beeson.

"Three years," said Judge Latashaw. The prisoner hung his head and followed the officer in charge.

Went on Prattling.

Baby Beeson's mother blanched. Baby Beeson reached out his hands to a new-found friend and went on prattling. That was too much for the attaches of the court. They had seen many men sink into the room behind the jury box and pass down the long corridor and stairway of the jail—the way that leads finally to the penitentiary.

A newspaper man went down to the jail to talk to the prisoner. Then he came back and talked to the crowd in the courtroom, which awaited the calling of the next trial. A dozen men went to talk to Judge Latashaw. Somebody else passed the hat.

The judge said something about the general "orneryness" of horse stealing.

Outside the judge's chambers the dimes and quarters and half dollars and dollars were clinking as they dropped into the hat. Up in the front of the courtroom Baby Beeson was holding a levee and Mother Beeson was trying hard not to let anyone see that she was crying.

"But the baby," pleaded the delegation.

"All right, get him a job and I'll parole him," said the judge.

Dignity Is Forgotten.

"Good boy, judge!" shouted some one who had forgotten the dignity of the court.

The judge scowled and slipped into the hand of a deputy marshal "something for the hat."

Lee Nevins, one of the marshal's force, wired to Des Moines at his own expense to see if Beeson could have his former position back.

During the afternoon a message came from Beeson's former employer in Des Moines. It said that there is no work for him now but that as soon as a place can be found he may come on. The marshal's force offered to pay Beeson's way to Des Moines.

"Better get him something to do here. I'll let him out as soon as you do," suggested Judge Latashaw.

ONE LOOK AT BRIDE ENOUGH

Riley Had Corresponded, but Fled When He Saw Nevada Woman Get Off Train.

Kansas City.—When Timothy Riley, farmer, got one look at his bride-to-be the romance was "busted." Riley drove his brand new farm wagon up in front of the Union station, hitched the team and then stood guard at the exit door.

He wore a red carnation, by which sign the bride-to-be was to know him, all the love-making having been done by mail. The bride, who was to have come from Nevada, was to wear a Palm Beach suit.

A few moments later a Palm Beach suit, garnished with numerous boxes and bundles, hove in sight. Riley took one look, snatched the carnation from his buttonhole and fled. The bride-to-be appeared to be fully twenty years older than he, which probably was the excuse for his hasty flight.

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. KISSLING, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.
To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any drugist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and remove dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

FOUND THE SOURCE OF GUM

Discovery Probably Pleased Small Elsie Considerably More Than It Did Her Mother.

Six-year-old Elsie teased her mother unremittently for a chew of gum before they went into the theater, but explaining that it was impolite to chew in public her mother refused to give it to her.

Little Elsie did not forget the gum, however, for when the show was over she said:

"Mamma, where does gum come from?"

"From a tree, Elsie," replied her mother.

"What kind of a tree, mamma?"

"Why, a spruce tree, my dear."

"Well, the seal I sat in must have been made of a spruce tree, 'cause I dug a nice big chew of gum off the bottom of it."—Judge.

"How could you guess that?" she asks. "I am not wearing my wedding ring. Do I look like a married woman?"

"Not at all," he replies, gallantly. "But I knew you were married the moment we started to dance. You at once began the leading."—Judge.

"ANURIC!" NEWEST IN CHEMISTRY

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, head of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments for several years proved that there is no other eliminator of uric acid comparable. For those early recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, scalding urine and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, "Anuric" acts quickly. In rheumatism of the joints, in gravel and gout, invariably the pains and stiffness which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.
